FAITH CORNER:

KNOWING YOUR FAITH – How can we be sure that Christ has commanded Catholics to confess their sins to a Priest? We know that Christ commands us to confess our sins to the priest a) from the teaching words of Jesus about forgiveness of sins b) and from the constant belief and teaching of the Church about this Sacrament of Peace. The principal parts of the rite of going to confession and also the key elements in the whole aspect of forgiveness are contrition for sins, confession of these sins, performing the assigned acts of penance, and the absolution by the priest. Priests can easily be very understanding, patient, and forgiving because they also can be tempted and their holy position itself calls on them to be kind and forgiving.

What is genuine Contrition? Contrition being the most important act of the penitent is a heartfelt sorrow for sins committed along with a deep intention of trying not to sin in the future by avoiding bad occasions.
